Woodstock Budget Hearing . . . Building Inspector, Officer Discussed

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK — Less than a dozen people — and about half of them representatives of the area press — were on hand for the public hearing on Woodstock's proposed town budget Thursday night. Discussion centered primarily around the 1973 budget, but veered off into the pioneer past at one point when Supervisor Verner May noted that an increase would be reflected later to cover hiring of a qualified building inspector and zoning enforcement officer when Woodstock shortly passes a State Building Code.

Queried artist Albert Handell in agitated seriousness: "Does the building code include teepees?" (It does not, but it was perhaps a pertinent question since the art colony has recently seen a number of those original American habitations peppering the landscape.)

The budget was announced at $387,943.75, but May advised that before final passage later this month, it will be increased in several categories, including the building code department and an item earmarked for senior citizens.

The final figure will find the budget up some $43,000 over last year. That, in turn, means an increase of about 30 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation to the taxpayer. Further simplified, it means that the tax rate in 1972 under the General Fund was $5.17 per $1,000. Under the new budget, the General Fund rate will run about $5.20, or three cents more per $1,000. In '72 under the Highway Fund, the rate was $5.54 per $1,000. This year under the new rate, the increase will run about $5.82, or 28 cents more per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Where is the bulk of the $43,000 increase over last year? Spread out, apparently, over almost every area of town expenditure. Personal services and contractual expenses for all Town Board members, assessors, town clerk, and attorney are all up. So are elections expenses, janitorial and maintenance services in all town buildings, recreation funds, and zoning and planning expenses.

Also accounting for major properties and other duties, increases are two brand new New, too, is the creation of a budget items, one being the contingency fund in the amount of $20,000 to cover new projects. ## ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Olive Board . . . 'Recommendation'

WEST SHOKAN — The Town of Olive Planning Board has recommended that the Town Board adopt the New York State Building Code, as well as zoning regulations, to help prevent a repetition of circumstances that recently led to the overflow of a number of septic systems on Deerfield Road in Boiceville.

At Thursday's Town Board meeting, it was also noted that a special meeting will be held Nov. 20 to further discuss implementation of the state's building code.

The idea, advocated by a number of town residents, gained impetus in recent weeks with the disclosure that effluent from septic systems in Boiceville was polluting the

Town of Kingston Residents Face Increase in '73 Budget

SAWKILL for the two town councilmen who will now be making $700 a year. There were also questions raised on the increase for Highway Superintendent Herbert Dixon, but Whispell said the raise was "more than justified; he puts in many hours on his own time."

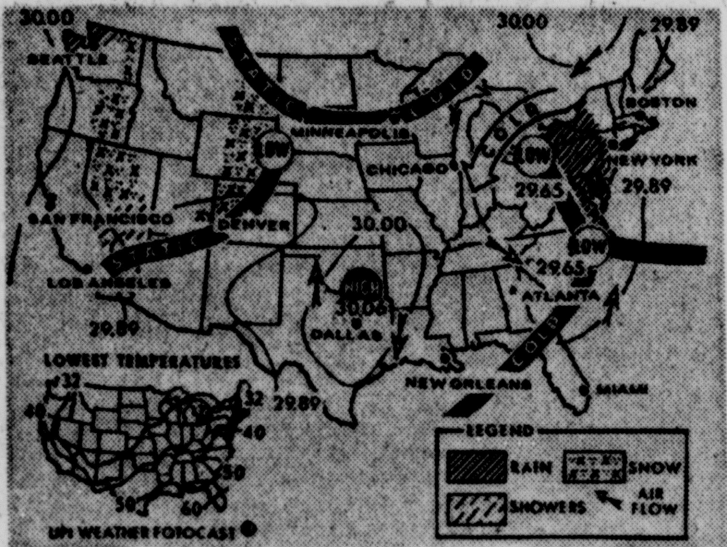

One hundred dollars was appropriated for the senior citizens of the town, a first time item, which Whispell says the board hopes to increase in the future. According to Supervisor Kenneth Whispell, most of the increase, $3.10, will be used for the highway fund which shows a $6,000 increase for paving and a $1,000 salary increase for the highway superintendent who will be raised to $3,000 a year in 1973. The town board met Thursday night following a public hearing and gave its unanimous approval to the new budget.

Steven J. Tasnady came home to a '73 Ford Maverick because it gave him country club comfort at YMCA prices.

Purchasing agent Steven J. Tasnady likes the sporting life, but he doesn't like to throw money away. When he buys a car, he shops darn carefully.

"We looked at the Toyotas, Datsuns, all the other compacts—but they were like expensive playthings to us," says Steve.

"We picked the basic Maverick and we built on that with a V-8 engine, heavy duty suspension, bucket seats, all vinyl decor."

We got a basic, dependable, family sized compact in the Maverick...and we got all the luxury we could ask for in the bargain!"

The days of going out on a limb to keep up with the guy next door seem to be ending. More and more Americans like Steven Tasnady want luxury with economy.

Maybe that's why so many of them are coming home to their Ford Dealers' showrooms and to cars like the '73 Maverick.

Anti-Westwood Forces Want Dem Chairman to Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jean Westwood has declared she will battle opponents plotting to oust her as Democratic national chairman in the first contest of the post-election struggle for party control.

"Jean Westwood is alive and well and intends to remain on the job," she told a news conference Thursday, two days after President Nixon's landslide victory over George McGovern.

But her opponents argued that the massiveness of McGovern's defeat—he lost in 49 states—heightens the need for new leadership at the top.

Mrs. Westwood was McGovern's choice for the chairmanship and was elected the day after he won the presidential nomination.

After simmering quietly for weeks, the ouster attempt now is boiling toward a confrontation Dec. 9 when the Democratic National Committee conducts its first post-election meeting. The 303-member committee chooses the national chairman.

Mrs. Westwood, the first woman to head a national political party, asserted that she and Vice Chairman Basil Patterson "have no intention of resigning and I believe that we have the support of a majority" of the DNC.

But at the same time, Democratic leaders who object to the party change McGovern and his allies have come to personify were lining up behind such dump-Westwood leaders as Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, AFL-CIO lobbyist Al Barkan, former DNC Treasurer Robert Strauss of Texas, and some Democratic governors.

Jackson, who ran briefly for the presidential nomination, is considered much more conservative than McGovern on many issues. Barkan and Strauss fall into the ranks of traditional Democrats who were not exactly enthusiastic about the swift rise of McGovern allies.

Mrs. Westwood's public supporters include Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

"This is not a move against Jean Westwood as a person," a source close to Jackson said Thursday night. "The opposition is directed at Westwood as an image. The image is the McGovern image."

The anti-Westwood forces, he said, plan a publicity campaign they hope will force her into "reigning gracefully" before the DNC meeting.

But if she doesn't, the source

Nixon, Congress On Collision Course

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, Democrats still have House in the last Congress, but by the elections, appears to be on a collision course with President Nixon.

House Speaker Carl Albert served notice on the administration Thursday that Democrats "will continue to develop and strive to enact those legislative programs which will bring us nearer to the goal of a better life for all Americans."

But Nixon in a copyright interview with the Washington Star-News said, "This country has enough on its plate in the way of huge new spending programs, social programs, throwing dollars at problems."

The President pledged that the administration will strive for reform "not just adding more dollars—reform in the field of education, reform in the field of health, reform in federal-state relations, reform in all fields."

The first tests of the 93rd Congress, which convenes Jan. 3, are likely to come on efforts to pass legislation which Nixon vetoed last month as too costly.

which he said would increase pressures for a tax increase he is sworn to resist.

The political makeup of the new Congress is relatively unchanged from the 92nd Congress. Democrats still have control, gaining two seats in the Senate and losing 12 in the House.

But Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford claimed "a winning combination for the President on most key votes in the House. We may well have a numerical majority while not a working majority while not a numerical one."

Organizations which customarily rate congressmen have reported that Nixon won virtually every battle in the Bogg's job.

'Massive Sweep'

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has set Dec. 15 as the target date for acting on resignations of some 2,000 presidential appointees and reshaping the government for his second term, informed sources said today.

The resignations, requested by Nixon in the aftermath of his overwhelming re-election victory, were beginning to pour in from Cabinet members down to lower level federal bureaucrats. A "massive sweep" was the way one official described the government housecleaning. Civil Service status employees will not be affected by the President's attempts to move away from "big government."

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters Thursday the Chief Executive wants to "clean the slate of all of those who have served the President in his first term and give him a free hand to restructure his second term."

Nixon, Ziegler explained, is seeking a more "efficient, effective government."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 10, 1972

WASHINGTON — A disastrous $15 million fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrester has been blamed, in part, upon the Navy brass who violated regulations by installing fancy, flammable furnishings.

The fire broke out last July in the resident admiral's flag quarters, which had been gussied up like a Miami Beach hotel suite. The illegal drapes flamed up, the plush carpeting smoldered and the elegant ceiling tiles threw off clouds of smoke. The smoke and soot billowed up fire passages and poured into delicate combat control equipment. Some of it was destroyed beyond repair.

The Navy quickly cracked down on the suspected arsonist. 19-year-old Seaman Jeffrey Allison, who will face a court martial on November 27 for allegedly starting the fire.

But no disciplinary action has been announced against the big brass who ordered and approved the illegal, match-stick quarters. Navy rules not only ban almost all wooden construction but prohibit unauthorized alterations aboard ships. The officer in charge of the fancy quarters was the Forrester's skipper, Capt. R.F. Schoultz. He, presumably, was carrying out the wishes of the admirals, who like to go to sea in style. Those responsible for converting the Forrester's flag quarters into a luxurious firetrap aren't the only offenders in the fleet. Others have used fleet repair funds to buy luxury items for their suites.

Comfort vs. Combat

Expensive paneling, flammable two-by-fours, decorative ceiling tiles, rich carpeting and solid Scandinavian furniture have been installed with funds provided by Congress for combat necessities, say our sources. A number of audacious flag officers have even hired interior decorators to lay out their quarters in stylish colors and patterns.

Sometimes, the fancy trimmings have been installed by the ships' crews. Other times, the work has been done at shipyards. But at all times, the bills have been paid by the taxpayers.

These illegal expenditures finally have drawn a rebuke from Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, the Navy chief, who doesn't seem to mind the elegant quarters so much as the fire hazard.

"Recent shipboard fires," he has cabled all ships, "particularly the Forrester fire which was started in combustible furnishings in the flag quarters, emphasize the need to re-establish the control of shipboard combustible materials and to eliminate unnecessary furnishings in ships throughout the fleet."

Zumwalt reminded the admirals that in World War II fire damage outcost all other ship disasters. "I am concerned," he declared, "that many of the hard-learned lessons of World War II concerning combustible furnishings aboard ships have been forgotten."

"We cannot wait for the start of actual combat to make our ships less vulnerable to useless loss of life and property," he observed sternly. He asked his fleet commanders to get rid of all possible flammable furnishings.

The Naval Board of Inspection and Survey, he warned, will investigate "any instances of unnecessary furnishings."

Red Carpet

Embassies in Europe have been ordered to roll out the red carpet for five congressmen and their wives, who had planned to make a grand, pre-Christmas tour of Bonn, Frankfurt, London, Madrid, Naples and Rome.

After we made inquiries, however, most of the prospective sightseers began backing out of the trip.

A cable, meanwhile, had already gone out from Secretary of State William Rogers to the embassies, ordering them to "meet, assist, provide transportation" for the travelers.

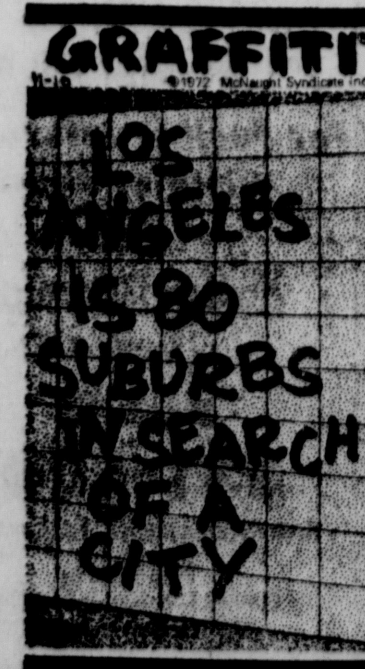

"Use of local currencies... up to equivalent U.S. dollars 50 per day," he directed, "plus actual transportation costs authorized."

The congressmen wanted separate cars and chauffeurs at each stop. "Codel (congressional delegation) requests five cars with drivers," added Rogers.

The cable identified those who had signed up for the trip as follows: Representative James M. Hanley, chairman, and Mrs. Hanley and son Peter (17 years old); Representative Morris Udall and Mrs. Udall; Representative William Mills and Mrs. Mills; Representative Frank Brasco and Mrs. Brasco; Representative Lawrence J. Hogan and Mrs. Hogan.

Udall, Brasco and Hogan, however, told us they had decided not to go. Chairman Hanley said he hadn't made up his mind whether to make the trip. He would prefer to stay home and spend the recess with his family, he said. If he goes, he'll take his wife and son "at my own expense."

The purpose of the trip, he explained, is to investigate the defense program for overseas children.

Many Campaign Flaws

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The presidential campaign of 1976 had better be a lot different. The 1972 campaign was full of flaws, full of incredible boredom, and in many ways got quite out of hand.

Basically, this is not a piece about the candidates or the issues. It is about the way campaigns are conducted today—and about the political and technical assumptions which led to that conduct.

The most sweeping thing to say is that, for the net product in provable exposure for President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 thing can probably be put down as the most colossal waste of political money in history.

Never before was so much pretentious motion generated for so little. Just the airplane activity alone was staggering to the eye.

Near the close, McGovern, his staff, the newsmen and photographers were being carried in two so-called stretch jets (elongated 727s) and one regular 727. The logistics involved in moving people, baggage and equipment around, getting in and out of hotels, operating temporary staff and press headquarters, would catch the admiration of an army division commander.

McGovern's running mate, Sargent Shriver, managed to contain the whole thing in one plane, since only a relative handful usually tag after the vice-presidential nominees.

But Vice President Agnew, being incumbent and being Nixon's chief surrogate on the trail, had a two-plane entourage. He traveled the country with an air of high ceremony and exaggerated tension which suggested we were making world rounds signing peace pacts.

As everybody knows, the President himself deliberately confined his efforts to a very few campaign forays this year. But when he did move, he was naturally followed by most White House press regulars and a batch of political reporters. He moved in Air Force One, with the usual Air Force backup plane going along.

We traveled in a huge stretch DC-8. One night on two short hops we all piled into a sizable fleet of military helicopters.

What came of all this mad dashing around? Sometimes thousands of miles produced no more than one or two public appearances. Only the jazzy Shriver got directly to the voters very often on a given day.

On my last day with Mr. Nixon, I saw the inside of aircraft hangars for rallies in Chicago, Tulsa, and Providence. Of the three cities, only Tulsa's skyline came into our view.

But the rallies were noisy, colorful, spiced with some heckling, and I collected 12 documents from the Nixon people telling me what had happened or was going to.

A lot of this seeming inactivity was deliberate. While reporters were logging as much as six straight pointless hours in hotel press rooms, McGovern would be busy taping local TV shows, talking with labor or political hotshots, working the phone to raise money.

His whole effort was geared to doing things which would hit two or three good "media markets" a day, meaning things which could get McGovern on evening television shows in key cities. Trouble was, as time passed it became clear that voters in countless areas were just not paying attention to politics on the news shows.

Nothing seemed altogether without flaw. Most observers today discount public crowds as artificially generated by the candidate's workers. McGovern's hard-working researchers cranked out lengthy "position papers" on the issues which were almost totally ignored.

Agnew's talks, loaded with statistics, suffered the same fate.

The whole process, from nominating battles to election, was far too long, too artificial, too smudged up with sabotage and deception—a frenzied, ludicrously expensive papier mache parade.

Freeman Editorials

Nixon's Reelection

The expected happened. Richard Milhous Nixon of California was re-elected President by the landslide that the national polls predicted. With him, of course, Vice President Spiro Theodore Agnew of Maryland was re-elected.

Unlike most national elections, there was never a doubt about the outcome, once the Democratic convention chose Senator George Stanley McGovern as its standard bearer. He never achieved the popular confidence the delegates reposed in him.

Nixon's strength seemed all-pervading. Business and professional people, white Catholics and Protestants, farmers, blue collar workers and white collar workers, all found him more to their liking than his opponent.

McGovern fought hard for a campaign that had its downs almost from the start. He never was able to recover from putting aside his original choice for Vice President, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri; nor from his original economic ideas for redistribution of wealth, nor from his identification with radical youth. He made some inroads, especially with Democrats who had been tempted to cross over party lines, but not enough to change the result. Nor did his war position nor his attacks on Republican spying catch fire.

Nixon's inroads among Democrats and independents and even among youth helped push his victory to a great sweep.

But McGovern was always the crux of the campaign. His credibility was damaged by the Eagleton affair. His warnings and predictions fell on ears turned off by factors he could not correct, that began in the primary and dogged him to the end.

Four more years it will be. With his foreign relations in line, or about to be, the President has promised that the second Nixon administration will be devoted largely to domestic problems. All who realize how grave are the issues—both foreign and at home—and how capable he is to handle them, wish him more than well, they thank God for him.

Bind Up the Wounds

The recent political campaign has torn this country asunder. It has gone into homes and separated youth from parents, into communities and separated town from town, friend from friend. John Adams, our second President, defined party enmity as the destroyer of the nation. This was not the only bitter campaign in history, but the scars are very deep and serious for this time in the life of our nation.

Although George McGovern and Sargent Shriver did not win, but a wide distrust of the administration has been sown. They—the official government of this United States, and the President—have been pictured as corrupt, dishonest in all ways, war mongers, perpetrators of fraud, thieves, evil, even murderers. These charges were not answered by the Republicans, as being too low and unworthy to be denied, not because they were true and embarrassing.

It is a great advance that at least one party refused to indulge in mudslinging and did not poison the air with invectives. But, in our opinion, it was a serious mistake not to have answered the charges with the facts. Great masses of the young and adults listened seriously and were convinced that "where there's smoke, there's fire," and lost faith in their government.

McGovern-Shriver gouged out a great chasm between those of low incomes and those of higher incomes. They caused lower income persons and unemployed to feel that there was no hope for them under the present administration, that their government had failed them utterly, and that McGovern-Shriver alone could help them. By their not gaining office, they have driven many to despair.

It is time to bind up these damaging wounds of a one-sided political campaign. Millions need reassurance from the administration—that it is honest, that it cares about them, earnestly seeks peace, will strive to end racism, will seek jobs for all, and will bring down prices, at least on the necessities of life.

Otherwise, the next four years will bring a vast and growing rift between government and a great number of its citizens.

Sunrise Serenade in Albany

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He doesn't look older. I haven't seen Frankie Carle in 28 years. He may be a little thicker around the waist. The dark parted hair has flecks of gray. But the happy optimistic face matches the happy optimistic tunes he raps out of pianos. He's in the Midwest doing 88 one-night stands. A long time ago, I wrote a column about this rare man.

He was in a hotel in Albany. A pretty redhead was dozing on a couch. His fingers were on the piano, skittering like calypso dancers. Now and then he paused, to jot a phrase on a treble clef and a bass. "That's pretty, dear," Mrs. Carle said. The eyes closed again.

Frankie Carle was sipping planter's punches. He isn't even a one-fisted drinker. The piano had a stuck key. Every time he hit it, he had to lift it up with a finger tip, while playing. The hour was 5 a.m.

It was summer and the windows were open. The long filmy curtains lifted and fell with the pre-dawn breeze. The tune sounded intriguing, light and bouncy with lots of high octave thirds and diminishing sevenths.

He had led his band until 2 a.m. Since then, he had composed a piano piece for Columbia Recording Company called "Lucky Strike." This was his main effort—a hoped-for hit. Carle had polished the phrases until they gleamed. Fortunately, he had played it for record company executives a week earlier. "A sure hit," they had said.

He needed a throw-away for the flip side of the record. Nothing important, such as his earlier hits: "Falling Leaves," "Lovers Lullaby," "Oh, What It Seemed to Be." Something simple and palatable would do.

Albany slept. At this hour, even the neon signs were cold. Carle worked over a melody. He was indeed a lucky man.

A long time ago, he had played piano at night when he was seven and his little feet didn't reach halfway to the floor. He played the neighborhood saloons of Providence. The barflies tossed pennies and nickels. He took them home to his mother to help with next month's rent.

Still later, he had his own band. He was conducting for an open-air dance one night in Massachusetts. "Who," he asked softly, "is that redhead dancing with that big guy?" The local announcer said that she was the local tennis champ. "It's just possible," he said, "she might be Mrs. Carle."

No one would believe it. He married her. Forty-six years with the same woman. Mr. Carle retained all the same values of life. He never acts out the big star with a large suite of rooms. If the concert is scheduled for an early hour, he brings his own sandwich and a container of milk. He also saves those big three and four thousand a night fees.

He was still rapping out the throw-away tune in Albany when there was a heavy knock on the door. Carle didn't look up. "Come in," he said in that hoarse voice.

A policeman was at his side. His face was red with anger. "What the hell do you think you're doing?" he demanded. "You're driving the hotel nuts. It's summertime, mister. All the windows are open."

Carle grinned. "Okay," he said. "Okay, I'll quit. You're right. But before I do, let me play this little part over—softly. It's a song I have just composed." The policeman was surprised. "You mean you made it up—out of your own head?"

Frankie nodded. Softly, he played the careless number. The cop listened. He took off his cap. He seemed surprised at the swiftness of the fingers. "The middle part is kind of lousy," he said. Carle nodded. "Exactly what I think," he said. "Suppose we try it this way?" The officer poured himself a planter's punch and leaned on the piano.

Mrs. Carle opened her green eyes. "Mr. Policeman," she said, "how about those neighbors?" The man glanced at her. "Let them mind their own business," he growled. "This man is composing. That's important."

Carle finished the song in a half hour. He wrote the score on music paper. "Like it?" he said. The policeman nodded. "Okay," said the musician. "You name it. It's not going anywhere as a song." The cop seemed flattered. He took a long look through the curtains, still lifting and falling. The first pale rays of dawn were lighting the city below.

"Okay," he said. "If I'm to name it, you got to stick by what I pick. Let's call the damn thing 'Sunrise Serenade.'"

Evidence Suggests Moon Has Molten Core

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A long-shot impact of a large meteoroid on the lunar far side has given scientists the first evidence suggesting the moon still has a molten core.

"We may be seeing the dying ember of the primitive lunar core," said Dr. Gary Latham, chief seismologist for the soon-to-end Apollo moon project. "But we cannot say that with any certainty at this point."

Latham made the disclosure in an interview Thursday at his office, at the University of Texas Marine Biomedical Institute. If confirmed, the presence of a hot fluid core in the moon would be a key to the scientific drive to understand the complicated story of lunar evolution.

Latham emphasized that the data indicating the possible presence of a molten lunar center are preliminary and fragmentary, but he said, "It's certainly very suggestive of a presently molten core."

"I hope we'll be able to confirm or reject this core hypothesis in a month or so."

The impact's vibrations were recorded July 17 by all four of the seismometers left on the moon by Apollo astronauts during the past three years. Because of normal delays in examining recorded telemetry reports from the instruments, Latham said the impact was discovered only last week.

The meteoroid hit with such force that its vibrations traveled through the center of the moon to the instruments on the side facing Earth. Latham said the odds were great against such an impact's occurring while the Apollo seismometers were still operating.

"That's the thing that has been the subject of our prayers

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin. Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain? You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend more than any other leading tablet. Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset. When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Report Government Operates Health Club

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is operating a luxurious health club and hotel in Alaska where top-ranking officers disport themselves at taxpayer expense and enlisted men act as servants, the General Accounting Office (GAO) said today.

In a letter to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the GAO—the auditing arm of Congress—confirmed a sergeant's story that 24 enlisted men were assigned to full-time duty at the Alaskan Chateau and Health Club at Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage. The GAO said this was an apparent violation of military regulations barring government-paid personnel from employment in service clubs and preventing GIs from performing work that should be performed by civilians.

Proxmire said the matter was brought to his attention by S. Sgt. Thomas G. Staudenmaier a year ago and he referred it to the GAO.

"We found Mr. Staudenmaier's information to be essentially correct," the GAO reported.

According to Proxmire, $179,000 a year of taxpayer money was used to pay 24 military servants at the chateau, which is barred to all except lieutenant colonels, colonels, generals and high-salaried civilian officials.

The GIs serve as cooks, waiters, accountants, record clerks, stewards, desk clerks, room attendants and other menial jobs. Rooms are available at the chateau for $2 to $3 per night.

The attached health club is available to all officers and civilians earning more than $13,000 a year. For a nominal monthly charge of $5, they—but not enlisted men or lower-ranking civil servants—can use the steamroom, sauna bath, sunrooms, massage rooms, a gym and exercising equipment.

Proxmire said the Air Force had promised to "rectify this situation" after March 31, 1973, but he said "these improper actions, which are contrary to the law and to regulations, should be stopped now."

He said the situation "makes a mockery of the Pentagon's constant cry that cutting their budget would harm our national security."

Connecticut Has Drug Plan

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut has a "comprehensive over-all plan" to combat drug abuse which could help it win federal money to implement anti-drug abuse programs.

The new plan, unveiled by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill Thursday, relies on coordinated action by police, educators, the medical profession, researchers, state institutions and other people and agencies to attack drug abuse and narcotics traffic at every step along the way.

Meskill said his administration has made a "dramatic increase in funds available for drug control activities" despite an emphasis by the administration on austerity.

But, he said, Connecticut lacked a "comprehensive over-all plan" and that's why he asked the Drug Advisory Council to develop one.

The state could get over $1 million in federal funds to help pay for drug programs. The money from Washington depends on how federal officials evaluate the 125-page plan, which contains overall goals.

One suggestion is that the Drug Advisory Council become the coordinating state agency and that treatment programs be delegated to 11 regions. The regions would be coordinated by five directors.

The colleges and universities in the state should run drug education programs for all school teachers and school systems and private schools should be required to provide comprehensive health education courses for high school juniors and seniors, the council plan also says.

While noting that exact statistics were hard to come by, the council estimates that less than two per cent of the state's population between the ages of 13 and 30 is "dependent" on drugs; 23-25 per cent could be considered drug "users" and 47 per cent have "tasted" drugs.

"There is a dearth of definitive information and data concerning drug abuse. Despite the publicity afforded the subject by the media, the best we can say is that we have been made more aware of some of the various drug issues," the council said.

Mrs. Jean E. Sumrall, a Los Gatos housewife, argued that equal rights under the Constitution "should include the right of a Christian child to entertain the possibility that he may be a child of God rather than a descendant of one of Dr. (Louis) Leakey's African apes."

The public hearing was called by the state Board of Education, which will decide next month how science textbooks used from kindergarten through eighth grade in California classrooms will explain the origin of life.

Because California is the nation's most populous state, publishers have indicated they would follow the board's ruling in basic texts used throughout the nation.

Scopes Trial Revisited, Origin of Life Debate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Nearly a half century after the famous Scopes trial, the evolutionists and divine creationists went at it again Thursday at a state hearing which could determine what millions of science students across the nation learn about the origin of life.

The spirited debate—involving 50 scientists, theologians and educators—was fashioned after the courtroom exchanges of Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan at the Tennessee "Monkey Trial" of 1925.

"Today the arguments against evolutionary principles must, I think, be placed in the same arenas as those advanced by the 'Flat Earth Society,'" said Dr. David Hogness, a Stanford biochemist. "Scientific evidence for divine creation abound in nature."

Election Foreign Reaction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Foreign reaction to President Nixon's personal victory reflects bafflement. To people abroad, the result seemed a mandate for continuation of Nixon policies, but in terms of the national legislature he remains a minority President. That couldn't happen in a parliamentary system of the sort Britain implanted in many nations around the world. As for Communist nations, long sealed off from the democratic process, the result likely is beyond the comprehension of most. The difference between U.S. and parliamentary systems stands out in bold relief this year because only nine days before the Americans, their Canadian neighbors also went through a federal election. The results suggest, among other things, an unlikelihood that men ever will achieve the perfect democratic apparatus. One British newspaper commented that the U.S. vote makes Nixon one of the most powerful presidents of the century, with a virtual blank-check mandate. But that overlooked Nixon's lack of control of the Congress. One fault of the parliamentary system — illustrated in Canada — seems to have been that a prime minister could be enormously powerful. In relative terms he could be far more powerful than a U.S. president. The parliamentary system requires popular voting for members of the lower house of the national legislature. The party winning the most seats forms the government. Its leader in the House becomes prime minister and he draws his cabinet from House members, who remain House members. In 1968, Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberals won a landslide. House of Commons members tend to toe the party line rather than risk discipline, and this makes a majority prime minister powerful, subject to practically no legislative rein on his will. This year, however, the result was a dead heat and meant neither major party could rule without the support of the so-called "swing" members. Foreigners are puzzled by the probability of a president with a powerful-looking popular mandate subject to frustration by a legislature that is not obliged to bend to his will. While some will not even try to fathom this, each capital is likely to read the result as it chooses to see it.

Judge Orders Youth Held

KINGSTON —Special City Court Judge George A. Beck Thursday ordered Matthew Meeks, 18, of 92M Rondout Gardens, held in the Ulster County Jail without bail for a preliminary hearing Tuesday on a charge of first degree rape.

Meeks was arrested by Kingston police Wednesday on information furnished by a 15-year-old girl who alleged that he forced her at knife point to submit to sexual intercourse Oct. 30 in a parked car on Locust Street.

Budget Hearing Is Adjourned In Wawarsing

ELLENVILLE —Town of Wawarsing Town Board's public hearing on its 1973 budget was adjourned Thursday night on the recommendation of Supervisor Frank Harkin who called for an executive session of the board for Monday, because he feels the budget is a little "too high."

The public hearing will be reconvened, Friday, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall.

About 30 persons attended the public hearing Thursday and opposition was expressed to proposed salary increases, in particular that of the highway superintendent.

Harkin said today that he would like to see the line held on salary raises, especially in the highway department until that department "gets out of the red."

The total proposed appropriation presented at the meeting was $998,267.87 with the amount to be raised by taxes amounting to $816,907.87.

Harkin said he will make recommendations to the board at the executive session.

Burglary Loot Is Recovered

PORT EWEN —Investigation by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department has resulted in recovery of most of the loot taken in a burglary of a summer cottage at 120 Canal Street, Port Ewen, sometime Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

First Sergeant Donald Policastro said that entry was gained to the cottage by pushing open a storm window on the east side of the house. Taken were an undetermined number of household items including a color television set.

Deputies Arthur Nersesian and Donald Van Aken Thursday located what is believed to be all of the loot except for the television set in an abandoned car parked nearby. Policastro said that the owner of the cottage, Mrs. Tillman Hickson of New York City, had been contacted and that an exact list of items taken would have to wait until she is able to come to Port Ewen and make an inventory. Investigation is continuing.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wife Jealous Over Mate's Girlie Photos

IC 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc. 1
DEAR ABBY: My marriage would be perfect except for one thing. My husband likes to look at girlie magazines. It's the only thing we ever fight about. He's 36 and I'm 34, and I'm not all that bad.

I actually get jealous when I see him enjoying those pictures. I can't help it. I know I can't compare with the well-endowed girls in the magazines and it makes me feel so inferior.

Abby, why would a man who is satisfied with his wife want to look at such pictures? Is it immaturity?

DEAR JEALOUS: Immaturity? Hardly. Admiring beautiful, undraped females has long been a source of pleasure among normal men. But because our Puritan "code of morals" has made nudity a "no no," grown men are made to feel like naughty little boys if they are caught enjoying it.

It does not necessarily follow that a man who likes to look at girlie magazines is dissatisfied with his wife. But the wife who makes her husband feel guilty for responding normally to an erotic picture could be cheating herself.

DEAR ABBY: What is this world coming to? Mothers putting their daughters on birth control pills at 14 and 15?

Next month I am marrying an unwed mother with a little boy. She isn't on birth control pills, and as far as I'm concerned, she doesn't have to be.

I am 26 years old and have been around a lot. Before I met this little jewel, every time I took a girl out, after the first kiss she would say, "You don't have to worry, I'm on the pill."

I thought all the girls were alike, until I met this one, but she set me straight right off. I got fresh (all guys will try), and she said, "If you want an affair, go somewhere else because I'm holding out for marriage. I made one mistake, and I made a promise to myself, to God, and to my little boy, that I'll never make another!" We're very much in love.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1972, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: My little boy, who is in the third grade, has received invitations to two birthday parties on the same day. On Sunday, he was invited to a party for the son of one of my good friends, who he does not know very well. This invitation had been telephoned from the mother to me, and was for the following Saturday. On Wednesday, he received a written invitation to the party of one of his best friends in his class.

Naturally he wanted to go to his friend's party, but I told him he had to go to the first party to which he had been invited, since I had accepted for him. Was I right? He was very upset because he couldn't go to the party he wanted to.

Mrs. Pearlman: Dear Mrs. Pearlman: Once you had accepted the first party to which he had had to go to that one. It is inexcusably rude to change an acceptance to a regret because something better comes up.

Even though your little boy is very young, you should consult him before answering invitations for him. He might have known his friend was having a party, and he could have asked you to refuse the other invitation, even though it came first. So next time ask him before you make a commitment on his behalf.

Dear Mrs. Post: Should all widows move their wedding rings to their right hands after the death of their husbands, or is that only done if they wish to remarry?

Oiga: Dear Oiga: The only reason for changing the ring to the right hand is to show that you are available. If you are not "on the market," you should keep it where you have always worn it.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be best man at my brother's wedding. He and I have been very close all our lives. I know I am supposed to toast the bride and groom at the reception. All the things that I can think of to say would only mean something to our immediate family, and would kind of leave the bride out. Could you make a suggestion for an but if she can wait to make it legal, so can I.

ARKANSAS SALESMAN: DEAR SALESMAN: The moral to that story is, experience is the best teacher, and judging from the cost, it ought to be.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is with my husband's people. I have been in this family for 35 years and every time there is a death in the family, his relatives show up at the funeral parlor with their cameras and they take a picture of the deceased lying in the casket.

They mail these pictures to all the out-of-town relatives who couldn't attend the funeral. They think they are doing them a big favor. When my husband's mother passed away recently, he made it clear that he didn't want anybody taking any pictures of her in the casket. She lived in another city, and my husband was sick and couldn't go back for her funeral, so wouldn't you know a few weeks after the burial he gets all these pictures of his mother laid out in the casket! He was so furious he almost had a spell because he wanted to remember her as she was when she was alive.

Are we crazy for not wanting to see such pictures? Or are they? They've got us thinking that maybe we're the crazy ones.

Please put your answer in the paper as we want to buy about a dozen copies and mail them around. Thank you.

HATES THOSE PICTURES

DEAR HATES: To each his own, but I agree with you and your husband. And since his people know how you feel, they should respect your wishes.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

appropriate, less personal toast? Dick

Dear Dick: The rehearsal dinner not the reception, is the time for personal toasts, stories about the bride or groom, humor, etc. Toasts at the wedding should be brief, less personal, and addressed to both bride and groom. You can expand it if you wish, but the simplest toast wishing the couple all the luck and happiness in the world is the most appropriate.

Dear Mrs. Post: I will be married next spring. At that time I will have been working for a doctor for two years. I don't know whether or not to invite him to the reception. He and his wife are very nice and I would hate to hurt their feelings. At the same time I do not want them to feel obligated. I do not see them socially, except for an occasional chance meeting.

Lynn: Dear Lynn: Your employer and his wife would undoubtedly feel quite hurt if you did not invite them to your wedding. They will surely want to give you a gift, whether you ask them or not, and they are not obligated to attend simply because they receive an invitation.

Dear Mrs. Post: A sister of mine is a teacher. Last year her students chipped in and had a wooden plaque carved with a glowing comment, and their names. She was thrilled but somewhat embarrassed because she doesn't know where to hang the plaque. She feels it would look concealed to hang it on the wall at school, and yet not to display it shows little appreciation of their gesture.

Jeannette: Dear Jeannette: Your sister should display the plaque. There is no reason at all for embarrassment — a little honest pride is a good thing. It would surely hurt the feelings of the students if she kept it hidden away. If she cannot bring herself to hang it on the wall in her classroom, she should hang it in a den or hallway at home.

Within a 35-mile radius of Kennett Square, Pa. there are approximately 500 mushroom producers. Here, more than 68 per cent of the country's nearly 230-million-pound annual crop is grown, giving the area the title of "mushroom capital of the world." Seventy per cent of the national figure is processed and sold as canned, frozen or freeze-dried mushrooms; the other 30 per cent is sold as fresh. In Pennsylvania, 75 per cent of the crop is processed and the balance of 25 per cent sold as fresh.

The mushroom was once thought so mystically delicious that only pharaohs and caesars could enjoy its fabulous flavor. But that was long before the advent of modern processing technology which has made canned and frozen mushrooms available all year round, all over the country. Low in calories and high in nutritional value, they are an asset to any meal. There are only 15 to 20 calories in a three oz. to four oz. can. Mushrooms are a good source of phosphorus, iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

Sauerbraten (literally "sour roast") is a wonderful dish most any time, but especially so when the days get shorter and colder. A good red wine such as Taylor Lake Country Red is used in the marinade to help tenderize the meat and give it superb rich flavor. The marinade, of course, then becomes the gravy, enhanced with convenient canned sliced mushrooms.

Mushroom Sauerbraten

One Six-pound boneless rump, round or chuck roast
One cup wine vinegar
Two cups Taylor Lake Country Red wine

SAUERBRATEN is one of the most delicious and, naturally, one of the most popular of all meat dishes. The marinade becomes the gravy, enhanced with canned sliced mushrooms.

Two cups water
Two large onions, sliced
One clove garlic, minced
One teaspoon whole peppercorns
Two teaspoons salt
One bay leaf
Two cans (six or eight ounces each) sliced mushrooms
One-half cup butter or margarine
One-half cup packed brown sugar
One-half cup flour
To Marinate:

Taylor Lake Country Red wine gives it a deep, rich flavor and fullness.

Place meat in earthenware, glass or enamel bowl. Combine vinegar, wine, water, onions, garlic, peppercorns, salt and bay leaf in medium saucepan. Bring to boil. Pour over meat; cool. Cover and marinate in refrigerator two to four days, turning twice a day.

Remove meat from marinade; pat dry with paper marinade. Melt butter in kettle or saucepan; add sugar and stir until dissolved. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in marinade; cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add sliced mushrooms; heat. Slice meat and serve with Spatzle and mushroom gravy.

YIELD: eight to ten servings.

*Spatzle

Three cups flour
One teaspoon salt
One quarter teaspoon nutmeg
Four eggs
One cup milk
Two quarts water
Two tablespoons butter or margarine

In a large bowl, mix flour, salt and nutmeg. Add eggs and beat until smooth. Stir in milk and beat until dough is smooth. Bring water to a boil in heavy four to five quart saucepan. With the back of a spoon, press the dough through a colander with large holes, directly into the boiling water, one tablespoon at a time. Stir the spatzle gently to prevent them from sticking together, then boil briskly for five to eight minutes, or until tender. Drain in colander and plunge into cool water. When ready to serve, heat spatzle in water, drain well and mix with butter.

Singing in Handel Is Oratorio Sunday

Nelson G. Burhans, well-known baritone soloist, and resident of West Camp, will sing the role of "Simon," the High Priest, in a presentation of George Frederick Handel's masterful oratorio, "Judas Macabbeus," at the Poughkeepsie Reformed Church, Hooker Avenue, Poughkeepsie, next Sunday evening, Nov. 12, at 8 p.m.

A native of West Camp, Mr. Burhans, son of the late Nelson and Florence Burhans, has been heard throughout the Mid-Hudson valley in various churches and with many well-known musical organizations. He was featured soloist last spring in the presentation of Kingston. A graduate of Hartwick College and Gettysburg (Lutheran) Seminary, Mr. Burhans is credit manager of Amos Post, Inc., Catskill.

The chorus for this performance will consist of the combined Youth and Senior Choirs of the New Hackensack Reformed Church of Wapping Falls, together with the Senior Choir of the Church, under the direction of Loton E. Springstead, director of music of the New Hackensack Church. The organ accompaniment for the performance will be provided by Mrs. George Cann, organist of the Poughkeepsie Church.

Also, featured in the role McCullough, well known local tenor soloist.

Sunday's performance is open to the public, without admission charge and the choir of the participating churches have invited music lovers of the Kingston-Saugerties area to come to Poughkeepsie on Sunday evening to hear the oratorio. Towels, Brown meat on all sides in deep kettle, fat side down first. Add marinade and liquid from mushrooms. Cover and cook three to three and one-half hours, until meat is tender, turning occasionally. Remove meat to heated platter; keep warm. Strain

Property, Land, Buildings, Equipment

Library Makes Offer to School Board

KINGSTON Board of Trustees believes that the financially pressed Kingston Area Library Association has offered to give all its property, land, buildings and equipment (valued at $400,000) to the Kingston Consolidated School District — lock, stock and barrel with no strings attached.

The offer was made at Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education by Mrs. Rita Jackaway, president of the Library's Board of Trustees.

School board president Harold Keator said the board would "consider" the offer.

The library does not have the financial resources to expand its existing facilities, and may not be able to survive beyond the next three years. According to Mrs. Jackaway, the library's

Board of Trustees believes that school district control of the facility will insure its continued operation and growth.

"We're looking to the future," said Mrs. Jackaway. "We think this is the best course for the library and the community."

The Kingston Area Library currently operates on a budget of $82,000 a year. The City of Kingston pays $44,300; the school district, $16,278. Another $6,800 is received through Association dues.

In her formal proposal to the board, Mrs. Jackaway said the takeover of the library would cost the school district between $8,000 and $10,000 for the first year. That figure represents the total of Association dues forecast for 1973.

In return, the school district would be given title to the library's lands adjacent to the high school on Broadway, as well as the main library building, the Children's Library, more than 30,000 books and periodicals and all equipment.

"We simply can't keep up with the needs of the community," said Mrs. Jackaway. "The school district is the logical entity to take over control of the library. We're a private corporation; we're offering to give all our assets to the school district, no strings attached."

The library's Board of Trustees is hoping that the school district will accept the offer and agree to at least maintain the current standards of the library. "Naturally, we'd like to see the school district expand the library; they have the resources to do it," said Mrs. Jackaway.

Thursday's three-hour school board meeting was one of the longest on record; the more than 75 people who turned out at the Hurley Elementary School represented the largest gathering at a board meeting in years.

Many in attendance had much to say about a controversial film currently being shown as part of the district's elementary health education curriculum. Some outraged parents insisted the film represented "sex education."

According to school officials, the film attempts to explain the changes males undergo during puberty, and deals briefly with masturbation. Some incensed parents indicated their belief that the school district was exceeding its responsibility by showing the film, and one parent threatened to bring legal action against the school board if his children were made to view the film.

Keator responded by saying that the film deals with "health education, not sex education" and added that arrangements would be made to allow any interested parent to view the film.

"This whole thing has been blown out of proportion," said

Keator. "Don't let your mind get muddled by rumors. See the film for yourself and then decide."

In other matters, Thursday's busy agenda included adoption of regulations governing distribution of literature and leaflets on school property. One student, Judy Doyle, took exception to the stipulation that literature distributed on school grounds must be authored and signed by a student. She said the requirement was "restrictive" and does not correspond to guidelines established by the Commissioner of Education.

The district's leaflet policy was revamped after a student committee threatened to bring suit against school officials for allegedly violating their Constitutional rights of free speech.

MODEL HEALTH DEMONSTRATION — Tuesday's meeting of the Kingston School Board included a 40-minute model health demonstration, prepared under the supervision of Lake Katrine principal Edward Crosby. The program, instituted on a limited basis in the local school district this year, was the result of a two-week state-wide seminar held last summer in Albany, and included emphasis on the educational aspects of alcohol, tobacco and drugs. Participants in the demonstration included (L-R) Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann, School Board President Harold Keator, fifth graders Brian Jones and Mary Ellen Skwish and board member Mrs. Evelyn Corsones. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Former Mayor Is Appointed

KINGSTON Edwin F. Radel, a former mayor of Kingston, has returned to city hall, appointed as the successor to Edwin L. Wetterhahn, administrative assistant in the Kingston Water Department.

Wetterhahn, who served under eight mayors, beginning with former Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, has been administrative assistant in the Water Department since Jan. 1, 1938. He will officially retire in March of next year after having reached the mandatory retirement age of 70.

For Radel, Kingston's youngest mayor when he was elected at the age of 32 in 1957, it is a return to city hall after a 10-year absence. Radel was reelected in 1959 and then lost in his bid for a third term in 1961, when former Mayor John J. Schwenk outpolled him by less than 90 votes. Radel, who had been an alderman for eight years prior to his election as mayor, dropped out of politics after that 1961 defeat, surfacing only briefly in 1969 as a city coordinator for Mayor Francis R. Koenig in his first run for office.

The provisional appointment of Radel was approved by the Water Board on Oct. 26. He went to work on Nov. 2. The position has a salary range of from $8,300 a year to $11,100. Radel is being paid $9,500.

Wetterhahn, who lives at 50 Wilson Avenue with his wife, the former Beatrice Spiegel, is a former commissioner and president of the Kingston Board of Fire Commissioners.

Permanent appointment to the post of administrative assistant in the Water Department is expected next year following a Civil Service examination.

Narcotics Center Discussions Continue

KINGSTON The word from Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, TCD chairman, is "We will do everything in our power to see that there is a storefront center (in Kingston) but we are not insisting on Beck's."

Dr. Sachs and Chamber Executive Len Cane said they would withhold any further discussions on the situation until the Beck's building had run into considerable opposition from the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association which had been promised the site by city officials for a parking lot.

Definite word on the fate of the storefront center, and its location, is expected next week.

Make Plans Now for Next Year's Party Place

WASHINGTON, D.C. It used to be called a patio. These days, when more and more of the family activity and entertainment takes place there, it has become an extension of the home itself, and is the "party place." And right now, according to the people who are best informed about such matters, is the right time to be preparing for better times on the patio next spring.

According to the American Association of Nurserymen, the planning of an outdoor living area can be every bit as much fun as enjoying it later on. With outdoor living gaining prominence over recent years, the right kind of advance planning and preparation can be very worthwhile.

As one nursery industry leader puts it, "So many homes now-a-days are built with a bare slab which serves as a patio. You can grill on it, you can sit on it, but it doesn't create any atmosphere which tends to expand the home. And that's where decorative planning usually begins." He's Robert Siebenthaler, an Ohio Landscape expert who has had much experience in planning and installing outdoor living areas.

"The fact is," Siebenthaler says, "the same people who are very good at decorating the interior of their homes seem to doubt their own ability when it comes to decorating the room outside — the patio or terrace." Three important elements in the planning of a patio "party place," Siebenthaler thinks, are privacy, beauty, and environmental health. He suggests a simple and common-sense approach to accomplishing all three objectives.

"Even people who like big open spaces around their home seem to require a bit of privacy when it comes to decorating their patios or terraces," he says. "The way this is achieved depends on the setting. If you're sitting next to a two-story house that's looking right down on your outside party room, perhaps a shade tree is the best idea for the basic plan. In another case a hedge or shrub planting would provide the screening you need." Along with the privacy, most people appreciate an open vista permitting a view of the more attractive areas of the yard or neighborhood surroundings, and this should be a part of the decorating plan.

"A part of the plan must account for the location of the patio or terrace party place," the AAN spokesman points out. "If the space is on the west side or exposed to the sun so the evening hour is sun-drenched to make a little over there, then shade is much more important than if the area is situated where the sun is not a factor. These are the things the amateur decorator can handle," he says. "The need for the particular kinds of privacy, shade, view — all are accomplished by planting the right materials in the right places. And it doesn't have to be difficult or expensive."

Color spots are a major consideration in decorating the outdoor party place. Potted plants or flower boxes of annuals or perennials often fill this need. Some may prefer the planting of flowering trees or bushes. "Maintenance should be considered in this connection," the Ohio landscape planner and installer says. "Frankly, if a homeowner's design is within his ability to maintain easily, it's going to be better, in the long run, than a more elaborate design which may eventually look unkempt."

The members of the American Association of Nurserymen are talking a great deal, these days, about the effect of plantings on the health of our environment, and this is a major point in the decorating of the outdoor party place. Siebenthaler says, "Is that now or then? Trees and bushes and plants are nature's gifts to improve the part of the world in which each of us lives," they say. "Plant parts act to capture the impurities in the air, contributing to a breathable, liveable atmosphere. They screen out noise pollution. They feed the earth. The green, growing gifts of nature are a key response to the crisis of ecology our world faces," the nursery industry maintains. "The important point," year.

Apartment Dwellers... Let Yourself Go Natural

By Sheila and Allan Swenson If you're a modern cliff dweller with an itchy green thumb let yourself go natural this year. You can make your topside home blooming fun.

Every kind of plant from petunias to pine trees are being grown successfully in containers. They can be moved wherever you want them, indoors or out to a balcony or sky-high patio. Best of all, organic gardening principles also can be applied to container plants anywhere.

Your containers should be strong, able to stand continual moisture, provided with adequate drainage to avoid soggy roots. Wooden boxes, barrel halves, redwood tubs, ceramic containers all can be utilized.

Container-grown plants tend to dry out faster than those in the ground. Plan to water more frequently. Always place a layer of pebbles, broken clay pot pieces or gravel in the bottom of the planter to avoid wet roots.

Buy or mix your own planting material. It should be a sandy loam, porous and yet moistureretentive. Adding leaf mold from humus or a peat-compost mixture will usually provide the best condition.

Because you will be watering more frequently, fertilizer in your soil mixture may be washed or leached away. Regular top dressing with a compost humus mulch helps restore nutrients.

This helps prevent evaporation and also adds natural organic elements to the soil and improves its structure. To maintain fertility, however, use regular applications of liquid nutrients, preferably from natural combination fertilizers. These are now widely available. A list of organic fertilizer suppliers is contained in the new book, "The Practical Book of Organic Gardening," by Sheila and Allan Swenson (Award Books) due this summer.

Check for insects on and under plant leaves periodically. For a few plants, wash away the pests or remove them by hand.

When flowers, petunias, marigolds, or other annuals you select begin blooming, remember that most annuals will be more productive when you pick off the blooms. Plants want to set seeds, so they'll keep producing more flowers for blooming fun all season.

Jackson & Perkins...Bulb Side, Too

The Medford, Oregon, firm of Jackson & Perkins is known to millions of gardeners as a grower of roses, which they sell by mail order and through nursery outlets throughout the United States. Not so well known is the bulb side of their business. They are one of the largest importers of Dutch bulbs. From the bulb-growing section of Holland — a small stretch of ground a few miles wide and not more than 50 miles long — J&P imports and introduces several spectacular new tulips each year, such as these for 1972.

Spectacular, which has been called the tulip discovery of the decade, can only be labeled as "giant." Being featured exclusively by J&P. Spectacular opens to a full ten inches across. It is a Darwin Hybrid with carmine-red petals the texture of satin. The deep-red blooms have a clear-yellow center edged in black and make an especially good choice for cut flower arrangements.

Oriental Splendor is another exclusive "giant," with blooms measuring ten inches across. A Greigi Hybrid, Oriental Splendor is one of the earliest blooming tulips. It has yellow flowers that are generously splashed with red. It also has 24-inch cutting stems which support striking and unusual foliage — glossy leaves striped with purple, bright green and brown.

Temple of Beauty is a new tulip which has blooms reaching seven inches or more, and thick, strong stems that reach 36 inches. A blend of coral and deep orange, its blooms are delicately sculptured, ending in a well-formed point. Temple of Beauty is a Greigi variety.

Black Beauty is the first truly black tulip ever created. It is also "the longest lasting tulip we've ever offered," says Jackson & Perkins of this new Darwin variety. The firm reports that the opaque, glossy black blooms hold their graceful shape in the garden for up to six weeks. The six-inch flowers exhibit subtle plum-colored highlights from deep within the petals and carry a rich lemon fragrance.

Blue Orchid, a uniquely colored Triumph variety and extremely difficult to propagate. Its unusual color makes it a particularly dramatic flower for arrangements.

Keukenhof is another 1972 introduction and is the only multiflowering tulip with blooms of three to four inches. It is a Cottage variety. Each Keukenhof bulb produces four to five bright cherry-red blooms, making it a perfect tulip for plantings where a large splash of brilliant, non-fading color is desired.

Storm-Proof Your Shade Trees

STAMFORD, CONN. Shade trees are being winterized now. It's a matter of stormproofing to minimize breakage, splitting and shattering when angry winter storms come.

Robert A. Bartlett president of the F.A. Bartlett Tree Expert Company, says pruning, cabling and bracing are essential. Dead and dying wood are often found in tops of trees after the hot and dry summer. All such wood should be pruned away and the trees headed back. Limbs that have become diseased or invaded by borers are eliminated also. Branches abnormally long are cut back.

Eliminate crossover branches that rub against others. Limbs that hang hazily over house, garage, drive, or walk are cut back.

Structural defects should also be corrected. Some maples, willows and elms have a tendency to form V-shaped crotches. The crotches are susceptible to splitting when limbs are weighted down by ice or snow. This V-shaped tendency can be corrected when the tree is young. In a mature tree, cabling and bracing are required. Bracing includes the reinforcement of a defective crotch with a steel screw-rod. Cabling means installation of cables higher up in the tops.

During storm-proofing a tree, wounds on trunk and branches can be detected. These are cleaned out and treated before heart rots begin and decay sets in.

Storm-proofing is far less costly than repair after a tree has been damaged by storms. It also minimizes the danger and risk of falling branches.

Denver Still Has Shot at Games

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado tried to get out of hosting the 1976 Winter Olympics Thursday, but a district judge would not allow it. He kept the state's obligation firm, at least for the weekend.

Less than two hours before the Denver Olympics Organizing Committee (DOOC) met to withdraw officially its invitation to host the games, District Judge Neil Horan barred the action.

Horan gave three Denver area businessmen at least until Monday to figure out a way to save the games, which were overwhelmingly rejected by Colorado voters at the polls Tuesday.

Attorney Harry L. Arkin

argued that Coloradans only cut off further tax funds for the Olympics and were not given a chance to decide if they actually wanted the games on a privately funded basis.

Arkin planned to make a last-minute flight to International Olympic Committee (IOC) headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland, Monday to try to keep the Winter Olympics in Colorado.

He and the others hope to raise the necessary millions of dollars to stage the games through private donations and a plea for federal funds. Arkin announced the formation of the Colorado Committee to Retain the Winter Games to help in the effort.

"If there is the slightest chance that we can retain the Olympics in Colorado, we owe it to the people who have supported the games to do so," Arkin said.

But the last-ditch effort to save the games was criticized by the DOOC, a group which donated thousands of man-hours and dollars in an effort to keep the Olympics alive.

"The people here are good people," DOOC Chairman W. Richard Goodwin said. "They're trying to tell us something, and I think we ought to listen."

"We lost. I think we should learn something from that. Let's not prolong this to the point that whoever does stage the games can't do a good job." The DOOC, ignoring Arkin's pleas, unanimously approved a resolution authorizing its officers to notify the IOC as soon as the court order ends Monday that Denver and Colorado have "no choice but to withdraw the invitation extended for the holding of the 1976 Olympic Winter Games at Denver." Denver Mayor William McNicholas said it was a dead issue and suggested the city and state should withdraw as quickly as possible.

The only reason anyone from Colorado should appear before the IOC Monday, the mayor said, should be "to thank them for the honor and say we don't want it (the Olympics) because the people don't want it."

NOT HIS DAY—America's Tom Weiskopf, playing his first World Cup, lets fly with an iron on sixth hole during first round play in 20th Cup Championships at Royal Melbourne, Australia, course. Weiskopf and teammate Jim Jamieson, the favorites, shot a combined 150 to trail the leaders by nine shots after one round. The second round was rained out. It will be played Saturday. (UPI)

Rain Stops Cup; Speed-Up Desired

MELBOURNE (AP) — All 86 international players from 43 countries competing in the World Cup golf team championship will be asked to speed up the game when the postponed second round is held Saturday.

Slow play, with some players taking 6½ hours for their first round Thursday, continued to concern officials, some players and spectators today after the second round was postponed because of a downpour of rain that flooded greens. The event was cut from 72 holes to 54.

"The game is dying on the putting surface," said Fred J. Corcoran, tournament director of the International Golf Association.

The decision not to play today was made by the match committee soon after 10 a.m., local time, one hour after the first scheduled tee-off time when the greens still were soaked.

By early afternoon the greens were dry, the sun was shining and conditions were good for golf, but everyone including some grumbling season ticket holders had left the course.

The match committee had decided that if the field could not start in the morning there was no hope of getting the players around the 18 holes. On Thursday light was fading when the last four completed the course.

Corcoran, a renowned advocate of faster golf rounds, said five hours was a reasonable time for a round not the 6½ hours it took many Thursday.

Oakland's Payoff Largest in History

NEW YORK (AP) — Fury Series accounted for Gene Tenace matched Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and others in hitting four home runs in a $3,954,542.99 of that total.

Oakland's total money came hitting four home runs in a $677,584.14. It was split into 27 shares plus lesser amounts helped provide the Oakland A's for former players, batboys and with series shares higher than any payoff in baseball history.

The A's of the American League beat the Cincinnati Reds of the National League in seven games. Each player on the A's received $20,705.01 while the Reds each got $15,080.25, according to financial statistics released Thursday by the commissioner's office.

The previous high payoff was from the 1969 Series between the New York Mets and the Baltimore Orioles. The winning Mets each got $18,368.18 and the Orioles picked up $14,904.21 per man.

Ten other major league teams received shares of the $330,833; Minnesota Twins, record breaking 1972 World Series, and championship play—$292.15, and New York Mets, off gross of $5,187,475.99. The $280.09.

Placid Wants In

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI)—Lake Placid, the site of the 1932 Winter Olympics, has formally entered its bid to host the 1976 games turned down by Colorado.

Mayor Robert Peacock sent a telegram Thursday to Dublin, asking Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, to give "serious consideration" to returning the games to the Adirondack resort center.

Local organizers have proposed a $16 million $20 million building program, financed by federal grants and television rights, to gear up for the games.

The nearby Mount Van Hoevenberg already has the only Olympic-sized bobsled run in North America, left over from the 1932 games.

Although the immediate area is short of hotel space, officials said there are 25,000 rooms within a 100-mile radius, mainly in Albany and Plattsburgh, N. Y., Burlington, Vt., and Montreal.

The same cities also have large airports. The area already has a speed skating track, small ice arena, and two ski jumps.

Required construction would include a 90-meter ski jump, a new field house and administration building.

The planners would use the buildings as a new village hall, and a state university campus.

The IOC has scheduled a meeting for Monday, but the site question is not expected to be decided until next spring.

In a related development, a federal judge in Denver issued a temporary restraining order Thursday preventing the Denver Olympic Organizing Committee from notifying the IOC about the Colorado voters' rejection of the games.

The order was obtained by three local residents, who said Tuesday's ballot question did not ask if residents wanted the games, but whether any state or local funds should be spent on them.

Squaw Valley, California, also announced it might bid for the games. Other potential sites are in France and Sweden.

Wet Turf Holds Key To International

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — A soggy turf course held the key today to the number of starters in Saturday's running of the Washington D.C. International, but the man who shipped a horse half way around the world to compete didn't care whether the track was firm or soft.

Unless the track dried out, Riva Ridge, the Kentucky Derby winner, and Cougar II, one of America's top grass specialists, probably will be withdrawn from the 11/2 mile global classic. Ten from seven countries were entered.

But Jumbo Jet, the first horse from Singapore ever invited to the race, can run over any kind of a track.

"He has won on soft going," said trainer Ivan W. Allan, "but lately I have been withholding him on soft going. That is not our problem. We just do not know how good a horse he is or even if he belongs with this kind of horses."

Back home on the Singapore-Malaysia circuit Jumbo Jet easily outclassed the opposition in distance races even though the handicapper piled more and more weight upon his strong shoulders.

"Quite frankly there was nothing but more weight back home and I started wondering about an invitation to the International. I had a friend with the British Bloodstock agency from whom I buy a few horses from time to time. I asked him to bring Jumbo Jet to the attention of Mr. Schapiro (John Schapiro, president of Laurel). He wrote, asking for the horse's record and I sent it. When I didn't hear anything for a couple of weeks I put through a call to Mr. Schapiro and he issued the invitation," the 31-year-old Allan said.

Allan didn't have the faintest idea how to get a horse from Singapore to Maryland but it proved to be fairly easy.

"I contacted Pan-Am. They put him on a plane and flew him right to Los Angeles with a stop in Japan. He was quarantined there for 36 hours and then came on to Laurel," Allan said.

The horse "tucked up" for a few days but he had recovered completely from the trip. Jockey ick Shuk, who has been exercising the gelding, believes Jumbo Jet has a chance.

"After all he did win at a 11/2 mile in 2:30 under 148 pounds and he certainly has been acting right here," Shuk said.

Lester Piggot, who won the Queen Elizabeth Cup Handicap with Jumbo Jet when he stopped off at Singapore while on a world tour, will ride.

While Allan was unworried about the condition of the turf, trainer Charlie Whittingham said he would withdraw Cougar if the track wasn't fairly firm, as he did a year ago.

And Lucien Laurin, unhappy with the way Riva Ridge handled the turf course in a workout Thursday, planned one final test for the colt Saturday morning. And if Riva Ridge again floundered on the grass, he too would be withdrawn.

The United States nevertheless still would have another representative in Droll Role, a 6 to 1 shot to be ridden by Braulio Baeza, with Willie Shoemaker riding, was listed as favorite at 2 to 1 with San San, the Arc de Triomphe winner, second choice at 7-2. This 3-year-old filly was bred in Kentucky by the late Harry F. Guggenheim, is trained by Angel Penna, an Argentinian who raced horses in the United States for several years, and will be ridden by Jean Cruguet of France who rode in New York for several seasons. After riding in the International on Saturday Cruguet is scheduled to ride in Milan on Sunday.

Riva Ridge, with Jorge Velasquez up, was 5 to 1 as was Belle Geste, a strong filly from Canada.

Jumbo Jet was 15 to 1 as was Parnell of England with Willie Carson his jockey. At 20 to 1 were Steel Pulse of England with William Williamson, Boreen of Ireland with Buster Parnell, and Mejiro-Musashi of Japan with Yuji Nohira.

Holzman Turns Knicks On

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walt Frazier hung his head for a moment and said he was embarrassed over his opening half play against Atlanta Thursday night.

"I was really ashamed of myself and the team before halftime," Frazier admitted, "but then Red (Holzman) really turned us on."

The New York Knicks' coach laced into a lackluster squad that was held to only 38 points in the first half and the locker room talk appeared to needle the team into action.

"Red doesn't usually blast us like that, he doesn't have to because we usually play good ball," Frazier explained. "This time he got on the guards, the forwards and the centers for not holding down Atlanta's shooting. He paid particular attention to the guards."

Frazier was held to just eight points in the first half as the Hawks grabbed a 19 point intermission lead at 57-38.

Then pro basketball's whirlwind dervish spun the game completely around, scoring 27 points in the second half to lead the Knicks back. Frazier was at his best in the third quarter when he scored 12 points, grabbed five rebounds and had four assists.

"Actually, we were 23 points back at one time," Frazier recalled, "but that's not really a big lead so early in the game. What you have to do is go out and chip away at that lead. This time it took us almost a whole game to do it."

The close 101-99 victory pushed New York into a virtual tie with the Boston Celtics in the Atlantic Division.

"The game was played in two halves," said Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "We won the first half and the Knicks did what they had to do in the final 24 minutes to win the game."

The loss broke a personal winning string Fitzsimmons held over New York. He beat the Knicks four straight last season as coach of the Phoenix Suns and won his only previous encounter with New York this season before dropping this close contest.

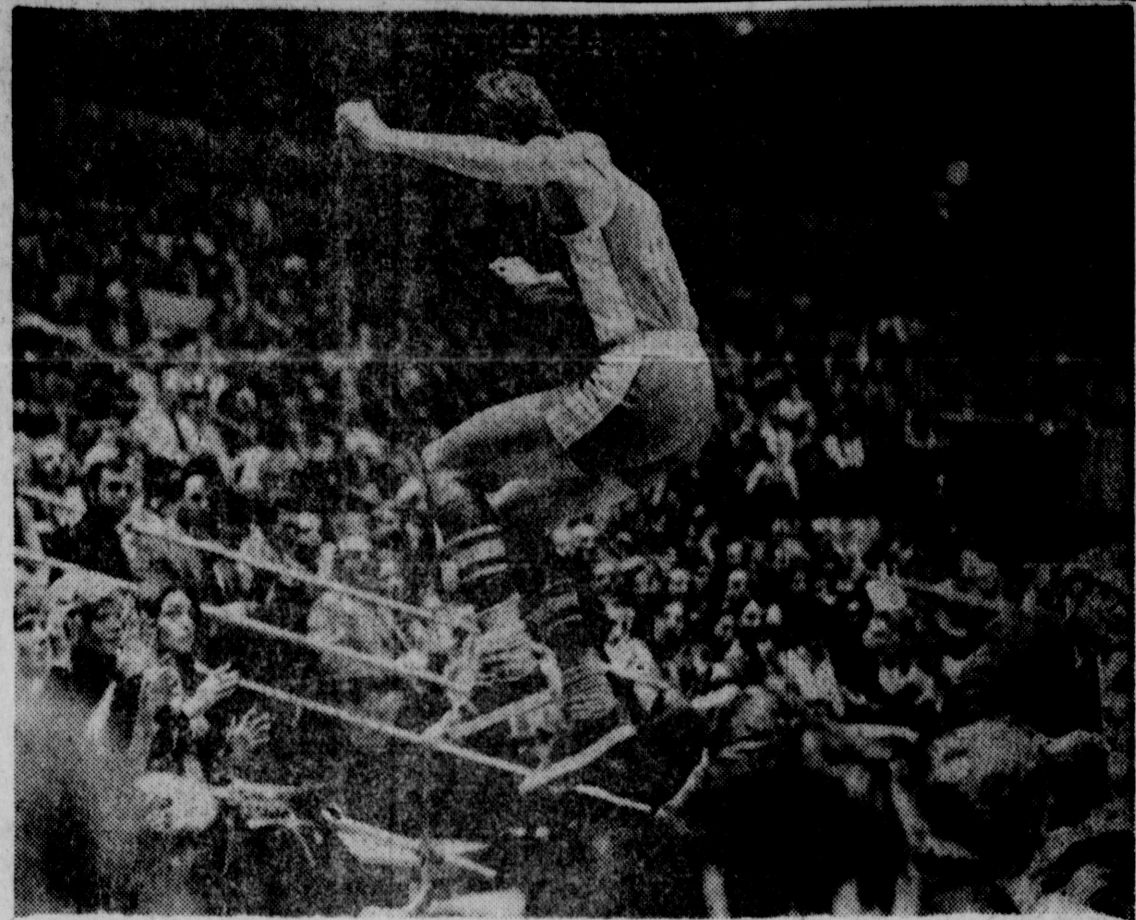

Atlanta, a game back of first place Houston in the Central Division, has shown surprising strength this season. Pete Maravich, who scored 25 points Thursday night, is a vastly improved player.

"Pete is real cool now," Frazier said in praise. "I like

Black Hawks Learn How Other Half Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turnabout is fair play, so the Chicago Black Hawks shouldn't feel too badly today.

The Hawks, who had bunched six goals in a single period to beat the New York Islanders the night before, found out how the other half lives Thursday night when Philadelphia scored three times in the first 7½ minutes and went on to a 5-3 National Hockey League victory.

In other NHL games Thursday night, Boston blasted Detroit 8-3 and Buffalo and California battled to a scoreless tie.

Rick MacLeish scored three goals for Philadelphia as the Flyers moved into a second place tie with Chicago in the NHL West.

MacLeish clicked twice in the first 6:18 of the game and then Bill Clement made it 3-0 at 7:33. The Hawks chopped that edge to 3-2 on goals by Jim Pappin and Dennis Hull, but MacLeish's third goal of the game restored the two-goal lead for the Flyers and they coasted to the victory.

Boston displayed some of that old fashioned Bruin offense, ripping Detroit. Scoring champion Phil Esposito scored his ninth and 10th goals of the season and assisted on three others for the Bruins.

Ken Hodge had five assists for the Bruins. Wayne Cashman, playing with a slight bone fracture in his lower back, and Mike Walton scored two goals apiece for Boston.

Goalies Marv Edwards of California and Roger Crozier of Buffalo swapped shutouts as the Golden Seals and Sabres battled to their scoreless tie. Edwards had 28 saves and Crozier stopped 23 shots.

Winnipeg bunched three goals in seven minutes in the second period to knock off Ottawa in the WHA.

Bobby Hull assisted on Norm Beaudin's tie-breaking goal midway through the second period and then Steve Cuddie and

Only Two Milestones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indiana Pacers went into Thursday night's American Basketball Association game against Virginia hoping to accomplish three milestones.

They wound up with two of them, but the third, Coach Bob Leonard's 300th career victory, will have to wait. Virginia survived Mel Daniels and Roger Brown both becoming the ABA's first 10,000 point scorers on the same night, and hung on to beat Indiana 134-126.

In the only other ABA game Thursday night, Utah stung the New York Nets 120-101.

Daniels hit a pair of free throws in the fourth period to reach the 10,000 point plateau and finished with 17 for the night, hiking his career total to 10,003. Brown had a bit farther to go, and his jump shot field goal at the final buzzer gave him 33 points for the game and exactly 10,000 for his career.

But the plateau the Pacers wanted was Leonard's 300th coaching victory. And that's the one they didn't get. The weary Squires, who played Wednesday night in Denver, waited out a four-hour layover in Chicago and didn't get back to Norfolk until 11:30 Thursday morning.

HOOPLE MANOR
Aha! It's arrived... the final Saturday of the UCL football season and three teams are very much alive for championship consideration. You, dear readers, are no doubt anxious to learn just who will walk away with the pennant when darkness falls on Ulster County. I have that answer as well as those concerning other league contests and the DCSL struggles of interest to local buffs.

I would be sick if I didn't mention that last week the Hoople System was correct in six of seven prognostications lifting the season's record to 31 right, 19 miscalculated (but not wrong) and 3 tied. That's a .620 percentage, a far cry from our exceptional plus .700 of last year, but tops in anyone's league nonetheless.

But then, what did you expect from your favorite forecaster? Ah, that's enough useless chit-chat. You want picks and it's picks that I have, so it's on to this week's forecast:

RED HOOK 21
ELLENVILLE 20

The season will close just as you'd expect... with a down to the wire battle. Red Hook, however, on the strength of its diversified attack and momentum will push the improved Ellies out of the picture. The Raiders are too close to the title to give it up now.

ROUNDOUT 8, PINE BUSH 0

A fantastic defensive season will end with another superb defensive showing by Roundout. The Ganders, though, will not be able to do anything about the title since Red Hook will take care of business in Ellenville. Credit RVC with second best.

ONTEORA 14, MARLBORO 8

Oh, how the mighty have of plays doesn't always remedy a losing situation.

KINGSTON 21, LOURDES 0
Both teams are down, but Lourdes can't even find the staircase. Kingston has the incentive of a winning season, not to mention this being the Maroons' last home game. Only if Lourdes puts 14 men on the field will it be close (I wouldn't even pick the Warriors then, but it would be close).

SAUGERTIES 14, ROOSEVELT 0

I wonder if anyone else is as surprised by the way the Sawyers have performed as I am? You've got to hand it to Saugerties, it has one helluva football team. Make this one win No. 6 on the year. Now, take a look at what the college football results will be: Notre Dame 35, Air Force 18; Arkansas 18, Rice 10; Texas 36, Baylor 17; Cornell 16, Brown 12; Colorado 27, Kansas 21; Dartmouth 32, Columbia 22; Duke 18, Wake Forest 12; Nebraska 47, Iowa 12; Alabama 27, LSU 22; Ohio State 21, Michigan State 20; Navy 17, Pitt 14; Oklahoma 34, Missouri 17. Also, Penn State 28, N.C. State 13; Yale 27, Penn 10; Army 23, Syracuse 10; Stanford 21, Washington State 12; UCLA 34, Washington 10.

Levy Proposes 'Exotic Bets'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Roosevelt Raceway President George M. Levy has proposed that off-track betting in New York State be limited to so-called exotic wagering.

Levy, in written testimony submitted Thursday to the Governor's Commission on the Future of Horse Racing in New York State, said that while he was opposed to OTB in principle, he felt that with a major overhaul the tracks and OTB could peacefully coexist.

Among the changes he suggested was elimination of win, place, show, daily double and exacta wagering through OTB and take the pressure off the tracks. Instead, Levy proposed, OTB should develop a program of exotic wagering, such as picking three or more horses in a thoroughbred race, and superfectas for harness racing.

He also urged that since OTB would not complete with the tracks under his plan, it should be allowed to retain 25 to 30 percent of the handle. Larger payoffs would make OTB more akin to the state lottery and a greater competitor for illegal bookmaking, he contended.

Among other recommendations, Levy asked the commission to consider were:

—Reducing the admission taxes for race tracks so they would be more in line with those for such competing forms of entertainment as theaters, movies and other sporting events.

—Reducing the pari-mutuel tax from 17 per cent to 12 per cent with the initiation of exotic wagering through OTB. He contends the lost pari-mutuel revenues would be offset by a larger OTB revenues.

—Equalizing the pari-mutuel tax split for thoroughbred and harness tracks.

—Limiting OTB to taking wagers on the nearest operating track in the New York City area so that OTB could not accept bets on Monticello when either Yonkers or Roosevelt was running.

The commission held a public hearing Thursday in Buffalo, the second in a series of four planned before the study group submits its report to the 1973 legislature. Levy's proposals were outlined in a letter to the commission dated in late October.

Mary Peters, who won the gold medal in the Olympic pentathlon, was voted top sportswoman.

year, and totaled 664 to take all the individual honors.

Watzka came back in the second match to add a 228 to his total, but his quest for the 700 circle crumbled with a 147 fall in the final game.

His performance overshadowed a steady 208, 206, 202, 616 night for Dick Lamoreaux who copped the runnerup spot. Other high SFB rollers included Larry DeCicco at 211-597, Robert Kmiecik at 212-578 and Glenn Newell at 210-570.

H.H. Swart locked up both team categories with 964 and 2666 aggregates.

Bill Vertetis did a little showing off for the offspring in the Father-Son League — 288 worth to notch the second highest single in the area this year.

Bruce Barents, a 300 roller a year ago, fired 236-661 for the top series of the night while another dad, Lou Porsi, checked in at 246-627. Vertetis' other efforts were not quite up to his second game slam, but he finished with a 537 total good for third position.

Following a good example was Dave Porsi who paced the sons at 220-578. Dave Ferraro was the runnerup with a 492 set.

Saturday Special - LSU and Alabama

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Alabama and Louisiana State are both unbeaten and untied but that situation won't remain after Saturday. The two Southeastern Conference powers will play in a nationally televised football game that may determine the conference champion and which team goes to what postseason bowl.

The Crimson Tide, 8-0, is ranked No. 2 in the nation. Its wishbone offense, as run by quarterback Terry Davis, has rushed for an average of 278 yards and 33.1 points per game. Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant's defense has allowed just 223 yard rushing yards per game. LSU Coach Charlie McClendon played under Bryant at Kentucky. He has beaten his old coach twice, in 1969 and 1970, but has lost to him six times, including five straight. Alabama won last year's game 14-7. Elsewhere in college football Saturday, No. 5 Ohio State, after key injuries last week, plays Michigan State, which goes for another victory for no w-resigned Coach Duffy Daugherty. ### Hartwick, Oneonta Tabbed RENSSELAER, N.Y. (AP) — Four New York college teams will compete in the first round of the NCAA-College Division Soccer Tournament, the New York Selection Committee has announced. The four teams, Hartwick (8-1-1), Adelphi (10-2), Oneonta State (12-1) and Brockport State (8-3) will be among the 24 teams that will compete nationwide to determine the best college-division soccer team in the country. This is the first time the tournament will be carried to a final. Previously, only division championships were decided. The final will be held Dec. 9 at the University of Southern Illinois in Edwardsville, Ill. In the first round, Brockport will meet Hartwick at Hartwick Nov. 18 and Oneonta will meet Adelphi. No date has been set for that game. Hartwick goes into the tournament as the favorite in New York State, although Brockport won the eastern regional the last two years. Hartwick has lost only one game this year, a 2-1 decision to Adelphi. The winner of the New York regional will meet the New England winner.

Saturday November 11

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most everyone wants to get their affairs in good order and condition now, but there is too great a conflict between the various personalities involved. It is wise to make sure you refrain from stirring up a hornet's nest which could have adverse effects. Use care on the highways, also, and you will avoid accidents.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Officials may be arguing with a partner of yours, but keep out of it, or you get into real trouble. It will soon blow over. Avoid bigwigs who are irate and keep busy at tasks ahead of you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) There are fascinating new outlets that you can look into, but don't leave present set-up for such, since they could prove to be duds. Show you are devoted to good friends. A wise person can be most helpful in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have obligations that need immediate attention, so do not delay any longer; get at them conscientiously. Try to please mate more and without having to be pressured into doing what is expected of you. Avoid a troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You find that associates are busy today and cannot help you, so work alone with determination and all is fine. The family matter is not difficult, anyway. Do nothing to encourage an argument between others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Not a good day for going off on tangents. Keep steady at the work ahead of you which has to be done, though it is a Saturday. Take needed health treatments. Assist those who are in need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you plan your time well, you find you can handle important business matters and still have hours for the recreation you enjoy. Concentrate on the practical, but think of the creative, though not a good day for delving into latter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what kin have to say and then you car. establish greater harmony within the home. Rid yourself of whatever is obsolete at home and replace with the new. Stop being such a self-sacrificing person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan your routines more wisely and increase your income — save time, effort as well. Add to comfort at home. Don't take any risks in motion of any kind. Control that inclination to flirt.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It would be wise to get together with friends who have good ideas, who can make your day much happier. Get partners to understand you and your ideas better. Don't lose your temper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You feel that you can handle civic matters better than bigwigs, but don't make the mistake of saying so, or you get into trouble. Show you are an A-1 citizen instead. Avoid one who gossips.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have new ideas you want to put in operation, but your first have to finish a personal letter that is important, or you are limited. One of different background from yours is blunt. This is good for you, so do not resent it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you get at all those responsibilities ahead of you, you need not have to worry about them any longer. Then you can enjoy congenials. Take care of those business matters in a most efficient way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people with so much energy that changes will be made just to use up the energy, many of which will be failures. However the experience will lead to really big success later in life, especially in such fields as astrology, philosophy, teaching, writing and the like. Teach while young to think first and then act, and to use care in always. There could be fame in this chart. Give religious training that suits this child's needs.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CHECKUP: (Q.) I like Jon and I finally got up enough nerve to call him up I asked him if he would like to come with me and a group of friends to the movies. He told me that he wasn't sure he could and asked if he could call me back the next day.

He did call, but he told me he couldn't go because he had to help take inventory at his store. Well, I didn't believe him. So I got my girl friend to call up where he works. She found out he really was telling the truth.

Now I am afraid he will find out that I checked up on him because I didn't trust him. I don't know what to do. You see, I want to ask him to go on an outing with me and a couple of friends. Could you tell me what to do?—Messed Up in Michigan.

(A.) Just about everything you have done so far has been something you shouldn't have done. You should not call up Jon and ask him to go on a date with you. He is the one who should do the calling. He has called you once, but only to complete a call you started.

You owe him another call now, however. You owe him an apology. Call him and tell him about checking up on him. Tell him it was wrong, and you realize now it was. Tell him you are ashamed of what you did but glad to find out he was telling you the truth.

Then ask him to go on the outing with you. After that, whether he says yes or no, do not call him again. Let him do the calling, if any calling is done.

MIMICRY: (Q.) I'll be 12 next month. My mother says I'm too young for makeup. But I just can't help it. Today, when I came home from school, my mother said, "You have on lipstick." So I lied to her. I couldn't help it.

Now I'm on punishment. Please help!—Punished in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Do not lie to your mother again. What I am going to tell you is not a lie and you can pass it on to her if you wish.

Many 12-year-old girls wear lightly-applied lipstick, lip gloss or both. Most of this age group is in the seventh grade. In many areas, this is junior high school or middle school, where the younger girls mimic the older ones in the same school. It's no big deal and I don't think your mother should blow it up into one.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

One of the nicest things about the approach of winter is the aroma of sauerkraut as spareribs as you open the doc when you come home.

The office wolf says that his predatory girl friend is already howling her Santa claws.

Cheer-up, water-lovers: You an still dip in the football pool.

On-the-Phone Interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Every now and then the phone in the office rings. Sometimes a press agent is on the other end and he is talking the moment he hears breathing.

He is talking about a client who is on a publicity tour for a new television series. He says the client wants to talk, too.

Now the client has been talking about the new show to reporters in major and minor cities across the United States from Truth or Consequences, N.M., to Haw. N.C. You'd think he'd be all talked out.

But the contract says the star will render all possible aid in publicizing the show. So he has five interviews in one day here.

The tour starts in Hollywood. People start reading about it when they get to the paragraph that goes: "He chatted in the studio commissary during a break in the filming of his new show, 'The Bizarre Ones.'"

The scene shifts to a plush hotel room when the star comes to New York. But the theme remains the same.

"Waldo Nern, the character I play, is a cop who cares," the star says. "Waldo kind of reminds me of my dad. He was a fine man. Went to church. Loved dogs."

"Waldo also is like a lot of cops I met while doing research for 'The Bizarre Ones.' I got to know these guys pretty well. I spent a week riding around in a squad car with them."

"Know what Code 3 means? It means 'I'm going to lunch now.' But cops rarely have time for a Code 3. That's a fact. It seems they're always on the go."

The star adopts a concerned look.

"Not enough people these days realize that cops are human. They care. I try to bring that out as Waldo Nern, who is a rookie patrolman from Azusa. We shot entirely on location there."

"We're trying for complete honesty and accuracy in 'The Bizarre Ones.' We're trying to tell it like it really is. And we are moving into some pretty controversial areas."

"For example, the show we have coming up Monday night is about abortion, lesbianism, homosexuality, venereal disease, incest and trombone playing."

The press agent clears his throat. The star tugs on his searsucker watch for looks at his timepiece and shows alarm.

"My gosh, I'm running late," he says. "Look, me up when you get to Hollywood. I want you to meet some real cops."

They're pretty good guys."

As you withdraw, another scrivener is ushered in. The last words you hear are, "Waldo Nern, the character I play is a cop who cares..."

May I shouldn't go around revealing trade secrets like this, you get to Hollywood. I want you to meet some real cops."

Confrontation . . . Navy Backs Down

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The crew of the Constellation saluted as the Stars and Stripes were hoisted on the giant carrier—4,780 of them from the ship's decks and 130 rebels, mostly blacks, from an adjoining pier where they rejected their captain's compromise offer to return to duty.

A week-long confrontation between the men and the Navy came to a climax at the 8 a.m. ceremony Thursday, and in the end it was the Navy that backed down. In an apparently unprecedented retreat, it reassigned the disgruntled sailors to shore stations effective today.

The rebel sailors began the crisis by staging a sitdown strike at sea. They brought a battery of five civilian lawyers with them to the final negotiations with their commanding officer, Capt. J. D. Ward.

The Navy announced Thursday afternoon that the men would be reassigned to three shore bases in the San Diego area—North Island, Miramar and Imperial Beach Naval Air Stations.

All but 10 of the 130 are black. About 400 other black sailors remained on duty. Training exercises for the "Connie," once part of the fighting fleet that sent planes over North Vietnam, were begun last week but disrupted by the crewmen's sitdown strike and other problems. The maneuvers were postponed until after Thanksgiving.

A Navy spokesman said that with the men divided into smaller groups, more attention could be given to their personal problems. Their new commanding officers will work with each man individually, the spokesman said.

The Navy said there was never any question of accusing the men of mutiny since the charges given black sailors with poor work records, changes in the disciplinary system and a promise that no punishment would be imposed on any of them for taking part in the protest.

The captain put the men ashore Saturday after they refused to report to their duty stations and the Constellation returned to sea. But the carrier returned Tuesday with the captain saying he wanted to take a personal role in talks with the dissidents.

He met with their leaders Wednesday in a barracks at North Island, and reportedly told them he would give their grievances top priority and had been mistaken in not doing so before, but they would have to return to the ship in time for Thursday morning muster.

The men gathered instead on the dock, stood at attention and saluted, but would not go aboard. The command duty officer read them a statement: "Liberty expires at 8 a.m. Those personnel who do not report back on board will be counted as unauthorized absentees."

It was already 8:10. Nobody budged.

Violence in Downtown Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — Bombers struck for the first time in two months in downtown Belfast while a series of separate shootings in the city Thursday left six persons wounded, three son, 26 named as battalion commander of the IRA's Provisional wing in Belfast.

It raised the total away from the 24 hours to five. Henderson was described as one of the top three IRA extremists in Belfast and was the 165th IRA member wounded in a new crackdown security official said.

"We campaign launched Aug. 1. On the heels of the army's successes, guerrillas slipped through tight security cordons during a clash in the Roman Catholic district of Falls Road. A bomb weighing about 300 pounds in a multi-story car park fringed by office buildings dropped by a wounded gunman and ran, ignoring orders to halt.

The spokesman said another woman was hit in the Protestant area of Sandy Row by a bullet fired by gunmen shooting at an army post in the adjoining Catholic Falls area.

The two wounded soldiers were in an army patrol lured into an ambush at a Falls Road bar by a false telephone report.

Israeli-Syrian Border Closed

By United Press International

Troops closed the Israeli-Syrian border today following the fiercest frontier fighting in 27 months. An Israeli spokesman said if more fighting occurs, the fault will lie only with Syria.

The two countries fought with jet fighters, tanks and artillery for several hours Thursday in what military observers called the heaviest one-day clashes since a Middle East cease-fire came into force 27 months ago.

Both Israeli and Syrian troops took up border positions. Israel said their troops were stationed in the occupied Golan Heights as a precaution in case of renewed fighting.

"What happens next depends only on the Syrians," a senior Israeli military officer said today while summarizing the Thursday action.

"Our approach to the problem is clear," he said. "As long as the Syrians keep the border closed, we will do nothing. If they open the border (to Arab guerrillas) or open fire, we will do something about it."

He said Israel "would punish" both guerrillas and Syrians if guerrillas were allowed to cross the border to attack Israel.

The frontier at the Heights fell silent at dusk after an hours-long battle that began with an Israeli air attack against two frontline Syrian army posts and ended with an aerial dogfight.

The Israeli military command said two Syrian MIG21s were shot down.

Military spokesmen in Damascus confirmed the loss of the two jets and said Syrian gunners shot down four Israeli planes. Israel denied that any of its planes were even hit.
